

Marc Simont (November 23, 1915 – July 13, 2013) was a true friend of Chore Service and Chore's founder Ella Clark. Marc was a well-known illustrator of childrens books. During his career, which spanned over 50 years, Marc illustrated almost 100 childrens books. He also created the artwork for several adult books. His work has received many awards.

Born in Paris, Marc eventually made his home in West Cornwall, CT. He met Ella and created the fabulous rendering you see here. The drawing depicts, in classic Marc Simont style – minimalist yet intricately detailed – the entire idea behind Chore Service. As we grow older or become less mobile, staying at home means juggling dozens of chores all at once.
